

*2015 Hosta Preview

New Hostas from
Green Hill Farm

www.HostaHosta.com

*‘Ambrosia’ PPAF

Ambrosia is “the food of the gods” and this hosta is certainly good enough to eat. It is simply divine. It is a blue-margined, light yellow-centered sport of my own ‘Guacamole’ that performs just as well in the garden, making a large clump that enjoys bright light. Like ambrosia it is fragrant and may also have the same mythological healing powers. This hosta is close to perfection. $40

We plan to patent this one!

* 'Leather and Lace'

The first time I saw this wonderfully ruffled seedling of Don Dean's, I literally got goose bumps. This small blue hosta has a creamy white border and forms a tight pinwheel in the garden. It is unlike any hosta I know, unique and very beautiful. $35

*‘Evening Blush’

Even if this medium-sized hosta never bloomed, it’s pointed blue leaves with rich purple petioles would make it a stand out in the garden. The purple flowers however are spectacular, just look above. Truly a complete hosta from Don Dean. $40 HH

Photos courtesy of Don Dean

* 'Icy Halo'

Nancy loves 'Sum and Substance' sports. She loves their round leaves and their huge size. This new sport of 'Parhelion' has rich green leaves and a pure white margin. Save a large space for this dramatic hosta that is the pride and joy of Cindy Tomashek in Minnesota.   $45

* 'Rough Knight'

Doug Beilstein has a special place in his hosta heart for cupped hostas, so do I. This small to medium blue-green beauty has very cupped leaves with perfect little rows of puckers. All the leaves appear to be emerging from a single point like a bouquet of foliage, to decorate the garden. Great in a pot also. $25 HH

Photo courtesy of Doug Beilstein

* 'Infatuation'

Rich cranberry petioles on a flowing waxy, blue leaf is a mystifying color combination, rarely seen in hostas. This seedling of mine is a great mix of the species H. longipes, H. kikutii, and H. pycnophylla. It demands attention and deserves a special spot in the garden or a ceramic container. Beautiful purple scapes produce seed pods easily. Great for hybridizing.

$30

* 'Petticoat Junction'

Doug Beilstein is rapidly producing a fine group of highly ruffled blue hostas. A very waxy, broad leafed, medium-sized hosta, 'Petticoat Junction' has a lively appearance, with its tight ruffles and twisted leaf tips. I love this look. $25 HH

Photo courtesy of Doug Beilstein

* 'Hobby Time'

My goal was to produce a large yellow hosta that stays yellow and grows. 'Hobby Time' is just that. The result of four crosses within the H. montana family, from 'Kinkaku' to 'Hercules', its large leaves and prominent veins make a dramatic statement all summer long.

$40 HH

*‘Hallelujah’

This seedling has the pedigree of two great hostas, ‘Halcyon’ and ‘Blue Betty Lou’. It is medium to large with bright blue leaves that are cupped like a decorative serving dish with strong venation and good substance. Its simplistic beauty is classic.

$20

Photo courtesy of Q & Z Nursery

*‘Envy’

This flashy hosta has a very showy yellow margin that will become white in late summer. A seedling of Doug Beilstein’s, it has a somewhat upright habit making a medium-sized clump. It always catches my eye from across the hoop house. Perfect next to any very blue hosta.

$25

Photo courtesy of Doug Beilstein

* 'Winter Frost'

This heavily waxed blue beauty is the first of a group of wonderfully ruffled, very blue hostas from Doug Beilstein. As a young plant it looks strikingly different from other blue hostas and matures into an elegant medium-sized clump in the garden. Its frost lasts well into summer.

$25

Photo courtesy of Doug Beilstein

*‘Light Ray’

A seedling from plantsman Graham Ray of Greensboro, NC, this upright hosta has large leaves with a wide, wonderful white border. Imagine it as a little like ‘Victory’ but a size or so smaller. Striking in a container in a special spot in the garden. $30 HH

?

Photo coming soon!